Police warn of door-to-door soliciting scam pretending to be Columbus non-profit

By Jack McLaughlin

<https://614now.com/2022/news/police-warn-of-door-to-door-soliciting-scam-pretending-to-be-columbus-...>

Kincade of the Community Liason Unit, the Columbus nonprofit I Know I Can informed police of solicitors pretending to be members of their organization in an attempt to collect donations. Police said I Know I Can does not go door-to-door asking for monetary donations. ... BROUGHT TO YOU BY "The solicitors are saying they are with IKIC or IKIC2 and are asking for donations to support students and sports teams," the post reads.

>> Since 1988 the I know I can. College access program has helped so many high school students and in particular underrepresented ones with financial support, something that's crucial. As we know that going to college is not cheap. Their latest work will now benefit graduating seniors, though, from columbus city, schools attend columbus state, community college for free. Joining me now to talk more about the I know I can program and the work that...
